

Use and Protection of Intellectual Property

Policy Statement

RCIIS supports and encourages our students to use the internet to enhance their overall learning experience. Online activities assist students in achieving specific learning outcomes and to provide an opportunity for collaboration. Students registered at RCIIS must agree to act within the framework of this document.

Definitions

The term "Intellectual Property" is the result of intellectual or artistic activity, created by an institute member in a scholarly, professional or student capacity that can be owned by a person. Specifically, this includes inventions, publications (including scholarly publications), educational materials, computer software, works of art, industrial and artistic designs, as well as other intellectual property rights (creations) that can be protected under legislation including, but not limited to patent, copyright or trade-mark, integrated topography, industrial design laws, and/or through a trade secret.

With regards to intellectual property, students agree NOT to:

Copy exact words, phrases, sentences, assignments, exams, graphics, or images from articles on the internet or the homework or presentations from RCIIS graduates.

Violate intellectual property laws by posting material containing quotes or references to others' ideas without accurately and appropriately citing the source of the material.

Use of RCIIS names/logos

Any and all use of the school name, logos, and/or other marks for commercial or personal purposes is prohibited unless approved by the school Director.
